2021 – CURRENT

Web developer - Remote Freelancer

I began my journey as a freelance web application developer, leveraging my passion for programming to create dynamic and tailored web solutions for diverse client needs. My expertise lies primarily in Laravel, which I utilize to develop scalable, efficient, and high-performance applications. Through Laravel's powerful framework and extensive ecosystem, I have seamlessly integrated advanced functionalities into my projects, ensuring robust architecture, security, and optimal user experience. My work encompasses end-to-end development, from designing database structures to implementing intuitive front-end interfaces, delivering customized solutions that drive client success.

04/2020 – 07/2020 Prishtina, Kosovo

Web developer Internship - Part Time Remote Starlabs

During my internship at Starlabs, I gained hands-on experience in web development, working alongside experienced professionals on real-world projects. This opportunity allowed me to enhance my technical skills, understand best development practices, and contribute to building functional web solutions. The collaborative and supportive environment helped strengthen my problem-solving abilities and deepened my knowledge of modern web technologies, laying a strong foundation for my career in web development.
